

HOMEOWNER'S NARRATIVE

A rock solid home perches above the treetops.

A daily connection to the natural world: through watching fox, listening to the twitter of red-throated hummingbirds or the swooping wings of the magpies, to being with the peacefulness of deer drinking from the babbling backyard creek are reminders that we are keepers of the land as much as they are.

We've raised children here. Eaten well, laughed together, loved, played, and now it is time for these walls to cradle a new generation.
